Texts and Supplies: Inside Reporting: A practical guide to the craft of journalism
by Tim Harrower
Associated Press Stylebook edition 2000 or later
Flash drive
Notebook and tape recorder

Description: This course is an introduction to the theory and practice of journalism. Students will analyze, critique and write stories for print journalism. Contemporary issues in journalism are discussed and debated. Students also will learn techniques of news gathering within a socially responsible and ethical framework.

Objectives: To organize and structure news stories coherently and effectively
To acquire information competently and responsibly
To present information with clarity, objectivity and accuracy
To quote, paraphrase and summarize accurately and appropriately
To present copy in accordance with current style criteria
To demonstrate an understanding of the principles relating to libel and journalistic ethics

Attendance and Participation: Repeated, unexcused absences will affect a student’s grade. Students are expected to present a note from the college for any extended illness and for any medical or family emergency. Active participation in classroom discussion and debate is expected and failure to participate will affect a student’s grade.

Late assignments: Drafts of writing assignments are built into the syllabus to give students an opportunity to have their work edited and returned for rewriting. Grades may only improve from rewrites. Rewrites are not permitted on drafts that are turned in late. Late copy will be penalized with a half grade deduction for each day it is late. Students absent from class are still expected to meet deadlines for assignments.

Faculty statement on disruptive behavior (edited): Generally, disruptive behavior in the classroom is any behavior that interferes with the process of learning. At Cedar Crest, it is the right of every student and faculty member to engage in a classroom experience free of disruptive behavior. Faculty members have the authority to address disruptive behavior under the guidelines set forth in the College Catalog.
Examples of disruptive behavior include:
- Persistent speaking without permission
- Use of cell phones and other electronics
- Threats or harassment
- Working on work for other classes
- Inappropriate personal disclosures
- Sleeping
- Lateness
- Eating, drinking without permission
- Arguing

Plagiarism: Deliberate or accidental plagiarism is a serious academic and professional offense and a violation of the spirit of the Cedar Crest Honor Code philosophy. Depending on the severity of the offense, penalties for plagiarism will range from the assignment of an F for the story to the assignment of an F for the course. All cases or plagiarism will be reported to the vice president for academic affairs and the dean of faculty. Under certain circumstances, acts of plagiarism may result in suspension or expulsion from the college.

Learning disabilities: Students with documented disabilities who may need academic accommodations should discuss those needs with the instructor during the first two weeks of class. Students with disabilities who wish to request accommodations, should contact the Advising Center.

Assignments: Stylebook quizzes 20%; Press release 10%; Crime story 15 percent; Speech story 20%; Profile 25%; classwork and participation 10% (Stories must be turned in, in person at the start of class and typed in 12-point font, double-spaced.)
